

Make the most of now.

A gentle kick up the proverbial. The iron is hot, so strike. The sun is shining, so make hay. Don't let the grass grow under your feet or beat around the bush. Take the bull by the horns, for the early bird catches the worm. (First come, first served.) Don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today, because – at the end of the day – today is the first day of the rest of your life. Bear in mind that there is no time like the present and that he who hesitates is lost. After all, time and tide wait for no man and a stitch in time saves nine. Finally, remember that procrastination, like all polysyllables, is the thief of time ●
